Young men are highly complex creatures. All of them are occupied, if not preoccupied, with people to see, places to go, things to do right now, today; yet in all probability they would not, without direction, attend to those pressing spiritual and intellectual needs of theirs, which, if not satisfied right now, today, can develop into chronic deficiencies that would make an empty charade of their adult lives.

Fenwick exists to provide this direction: the priests and laymen who have charge of the school's religious, academic, and athletic affairs devote themselves wholeheartedly to the task of guiding the students under their care in the Christian direction, toward perfection as human beings and sons of God.

Fenwick is a college preparatory institution, but it is not a mere stepping-stone to higher education. Fenwick trains men to be men—not just to be scholars, not just to be athletes, not even, in a sense, just to be saints. Fenwick affords its student an education for living—for living a fruitful and fully integrated college life; whether on the Catholic or secular campus; for living a life of achievement in whatever vocation they choose; for living the Christian life in the world.

+

—the Fenwick student's spiritual development. The Dominican Fathers who staff Fenwick's faculty do much of their most significant work outside the classroom—offering Mass, hearing confessions, counseling students. There is one big reason for human life—God. It is the priest's vocation to bring God to men. To the Dominican Father an assignment to Fenwick does not involve formal education alone; it is, in the widest sense, the apostolate of youth.

E=mc2

—the academic life of Fenwick. A highly competent faculty and student body selected on the basis of their superior potential for academic success makes for an unusually fruitful classroom experience. It is his power to reason that sets man above the other creatures of the earth and makes him his own master. To think is to be truly human.

F

—the school letter, recognition of extracurricular achievement. But it is much more. It represents that singular something called "Fenwick Spirit." Fenwick students bring this spirit to bear upon all their organizational activities—sports, music, debating, publications. Fenwick spirit is the spirit of its students. This elan, this joy of living and pride in accomplishment which they have imbibed in their high school years will make today's Fenwick graduates the Christian men of tomorrow, at once spiritual, thoughtful, and vibrantly alive.

The education of the whole man was this year as it always has been, the preoccupation of Fenwick's faculty. But as the academic round continued, Fenwick's faculty intensified its efforts by concentrating attention on individual students, their individual personalities, talents, problems and goals. Individual attention to more than eleven hundred young men is a staggering task. This year it was implemented by the development of the counseling department.

When school began in September, plasterers, painters and electricians mingled with the flow of students and the first classes were accompanied by carpenters' drills. The "counseling complex" on the third floor was soon completed and in October the counselors held open house. The new addition provides two large offices, three counseling rooms, record rooms and a new classroom. Father Dominic Tamburello had come to Fenwick with ten years' experience as a counselor to teen-agers and he quickly organized his program for contacting each student. Mr. Peter Allegretti, veteran college counselor, moved into his new office with expanded facilities for planning the seniors' futures in college. Fathers Kolzow, Mainelli, Nash and Halloran joined our two full-time counselors in the new program.

Increased contact and attention demanded an increased faculty. Fr. Delich came from Bishop Lynch High School in Dallas to teach mathematics and physics. Fathers McGreevy and Landmesser and Mr. Langenderfer joined the English department; Fr. Halloran began his career in Theology and counseling. Mr. Ball became the swimming coach and taught American history. Mr. DeGrazia came to teach Latin and Mr. Barnett, chemistry and mathematics. Mr. Ortiz, a native of Spain, came to teach his native tongue to seniors and Misters Tiritilli and Polka joined the Biology department.

But a list of additions does not tell the story of the Faculty; more can be said under the Academics and Organizations where their work was done in reaching and influencing the whole Fenwick man.

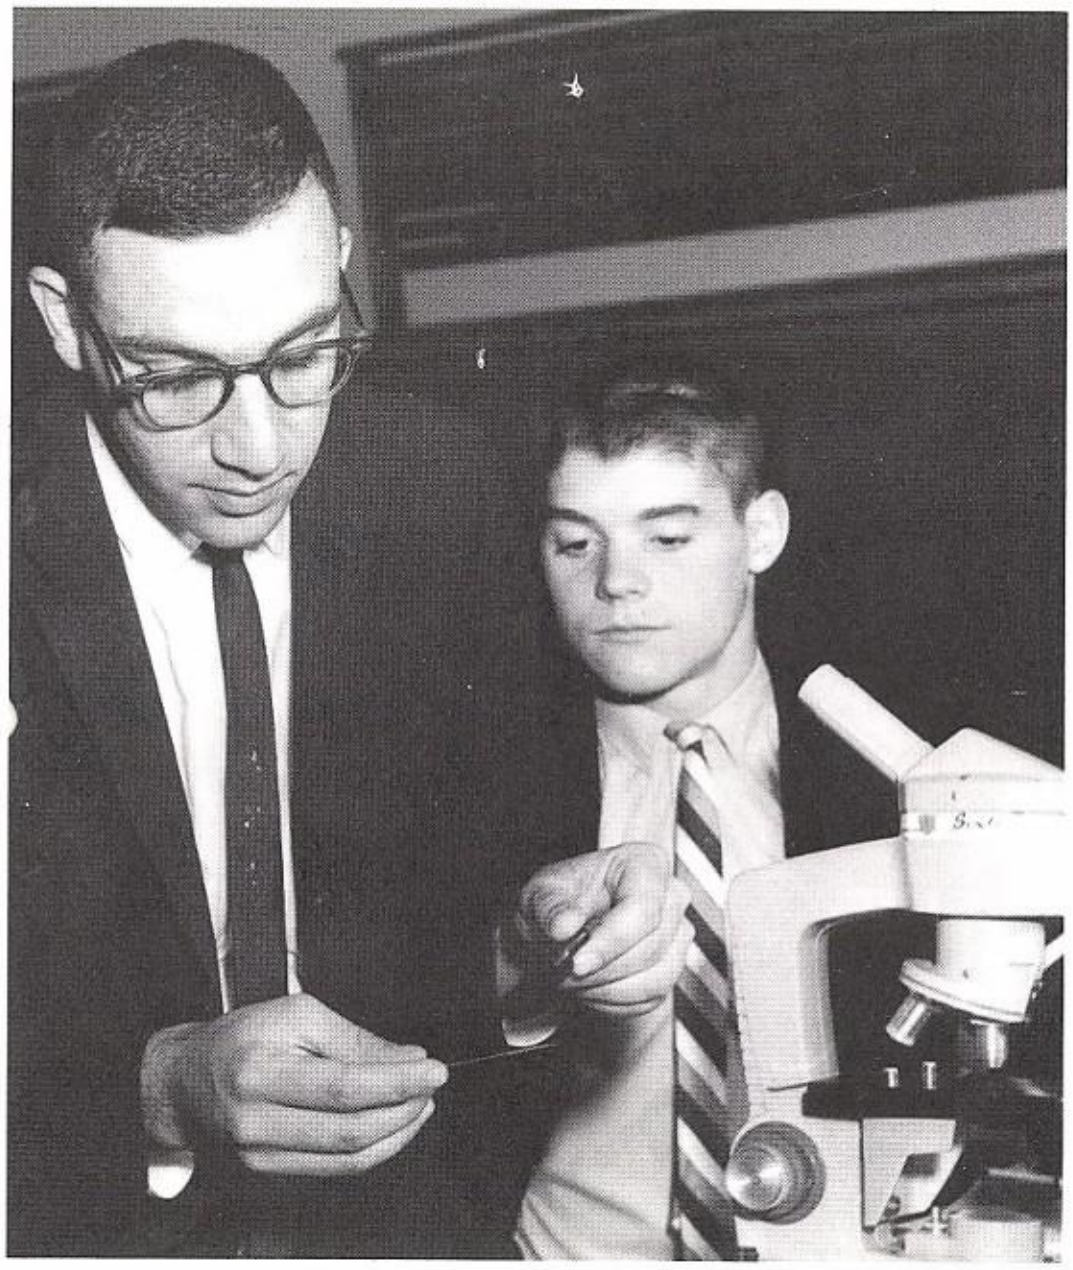
ACADEMICS

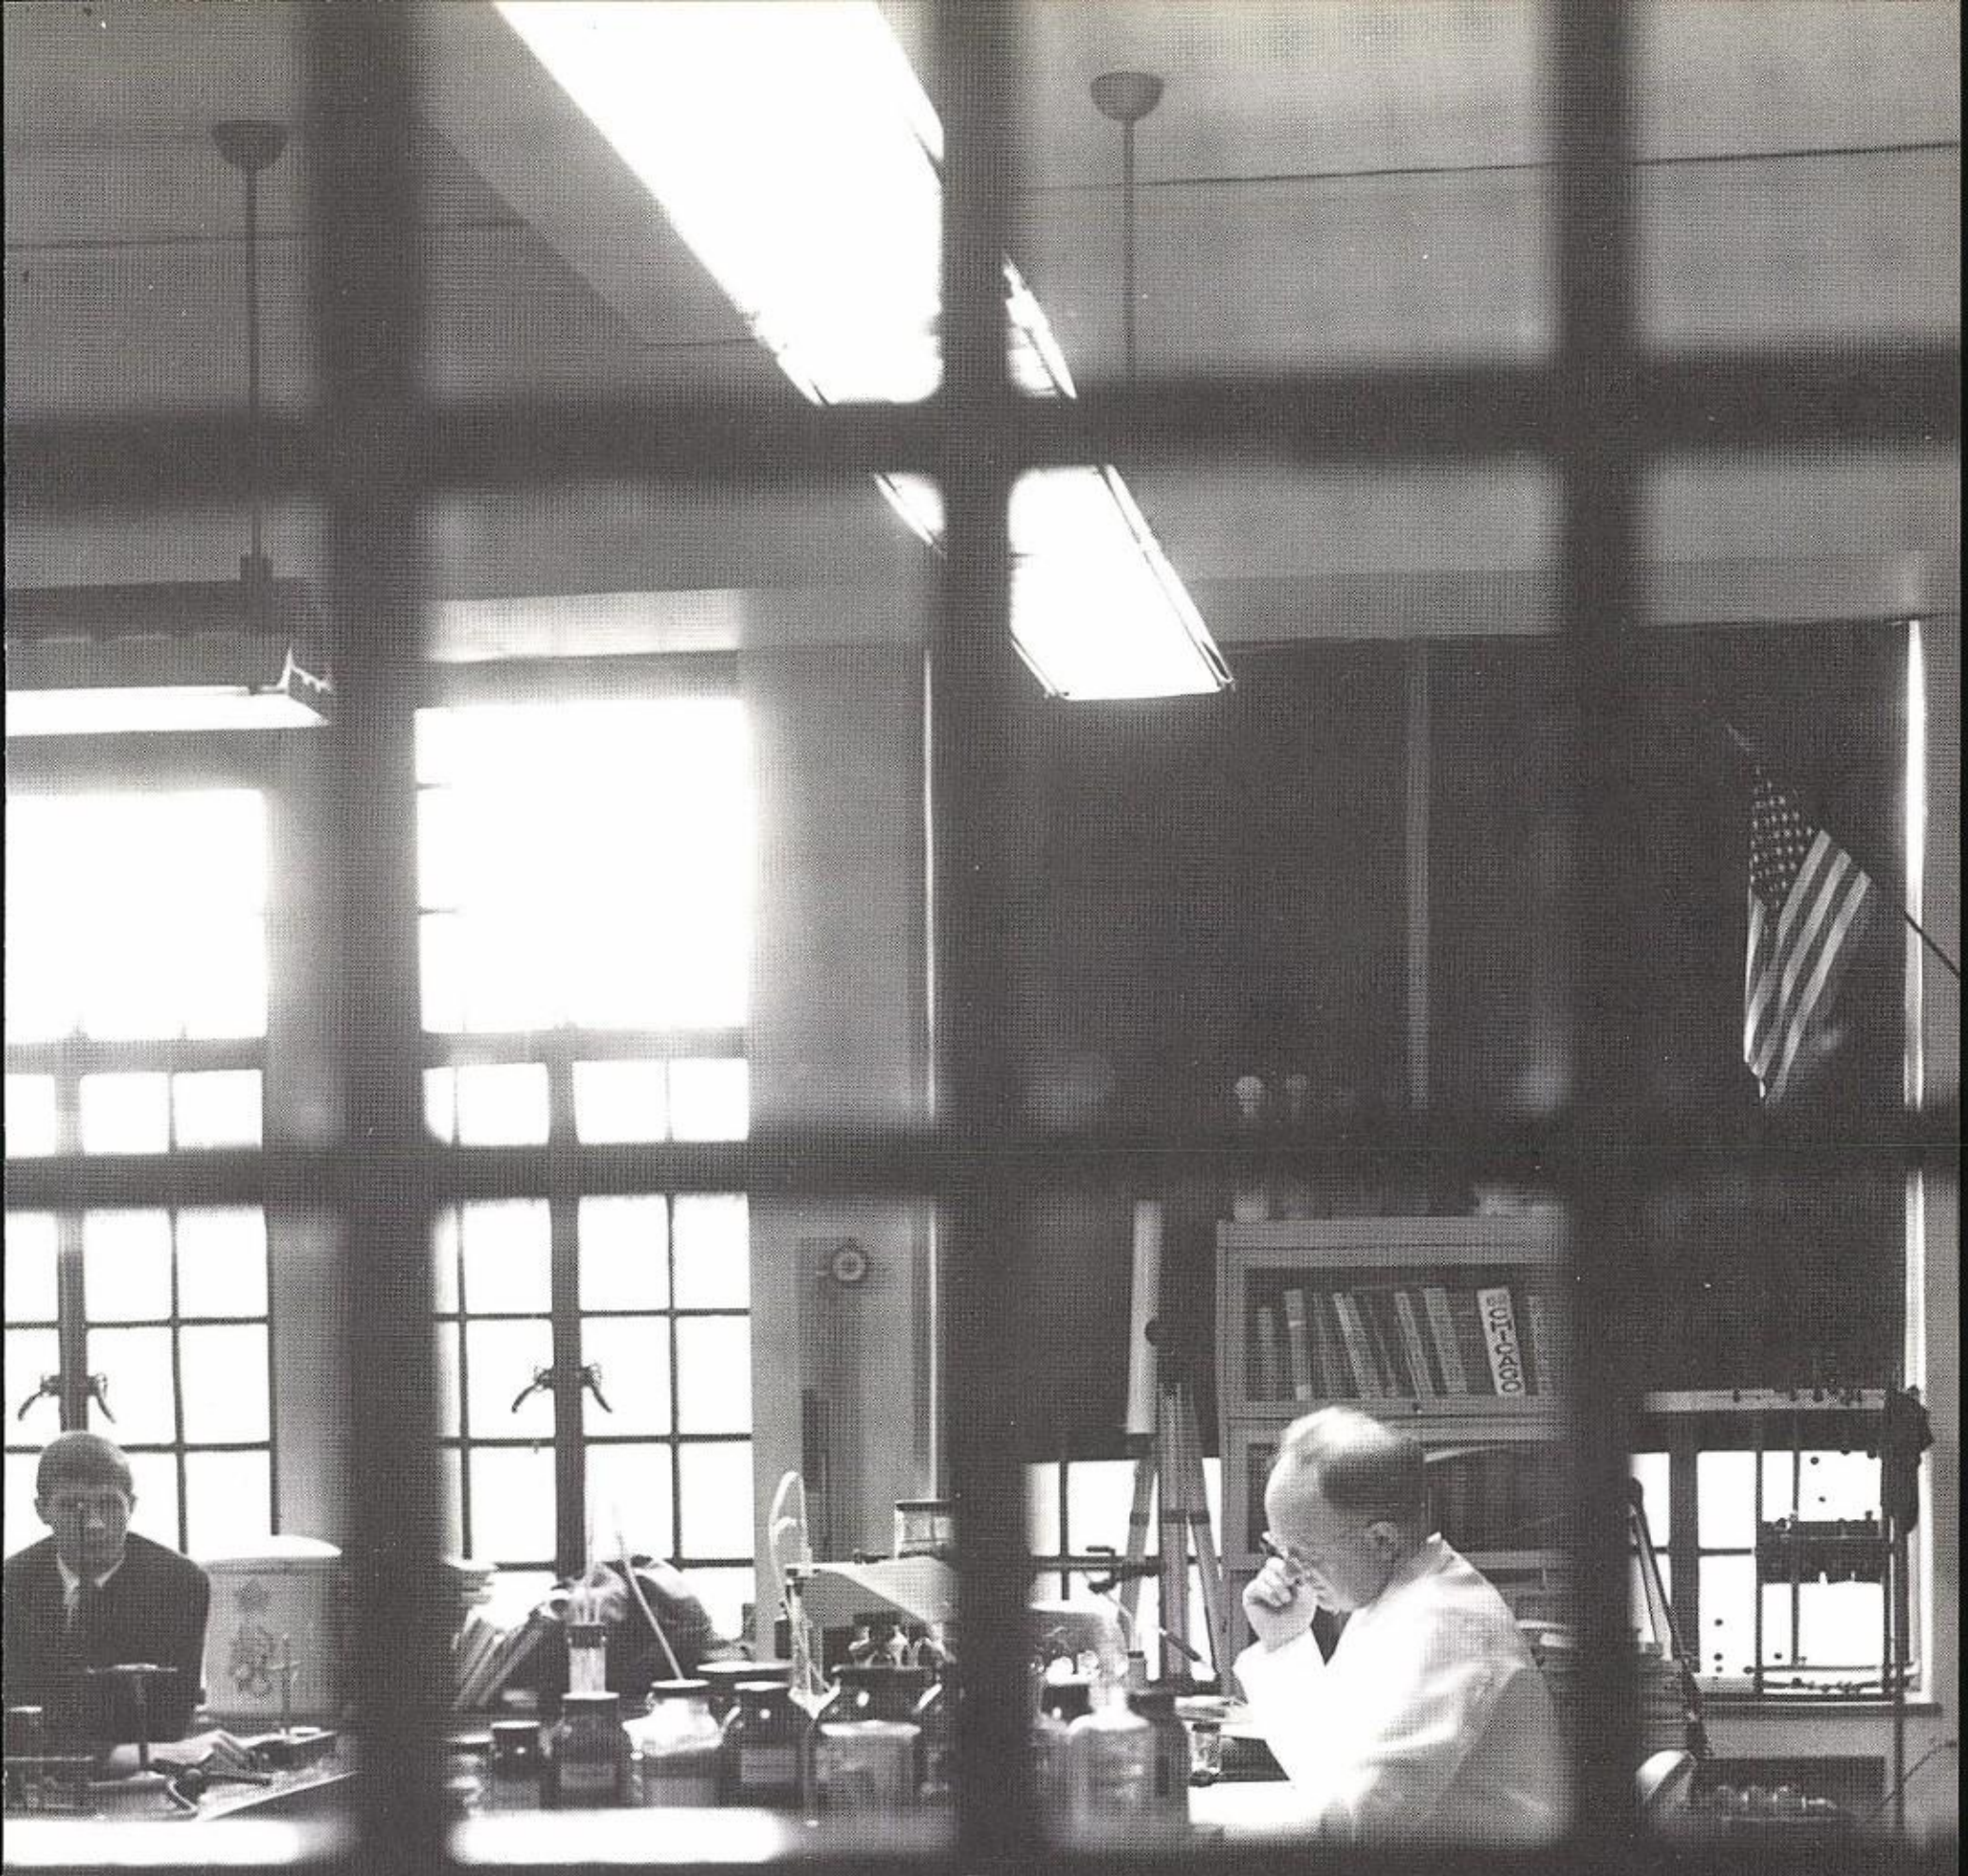


The high school student of today must have experience in the natural sciences to obtain a well-rounded college preparatory education. To fill this important requirement Fenwick offers a scientific curriculum of biology for the sophomores, physics for the juniors, and a college-level chemistry course for the seniors.

As a sophomore, the Fenwick student was introduced to biology through comprehensive instruction from Mr. Towey, Mr. Polka, or Mr. Tiritilli. This year of biological study of plant and animal life brought to the student an awareness of God's scientific design.

Under the direction of Father Robinson, Father Delich, and Mr. Lamb the junior physics student gained an invaluable technical knowledge and an appreciation of the great achievements which scientists and inventors have accomplished in the past. For the senior student, Father Fisher and Mr. Barnett presented a high quality chemistry course geared to ready him for his college science courses.

A new program was inaugurated at Fenwick this year when all branches of the Science Department combined in a joint experimental project. This initial endeavor, involving a biological, physical, and chemical analysis of human perspiration, brought about an acquisition and sharing of knowledge among the science faculty. Their observations and conclusions were then imparted to their various classes.

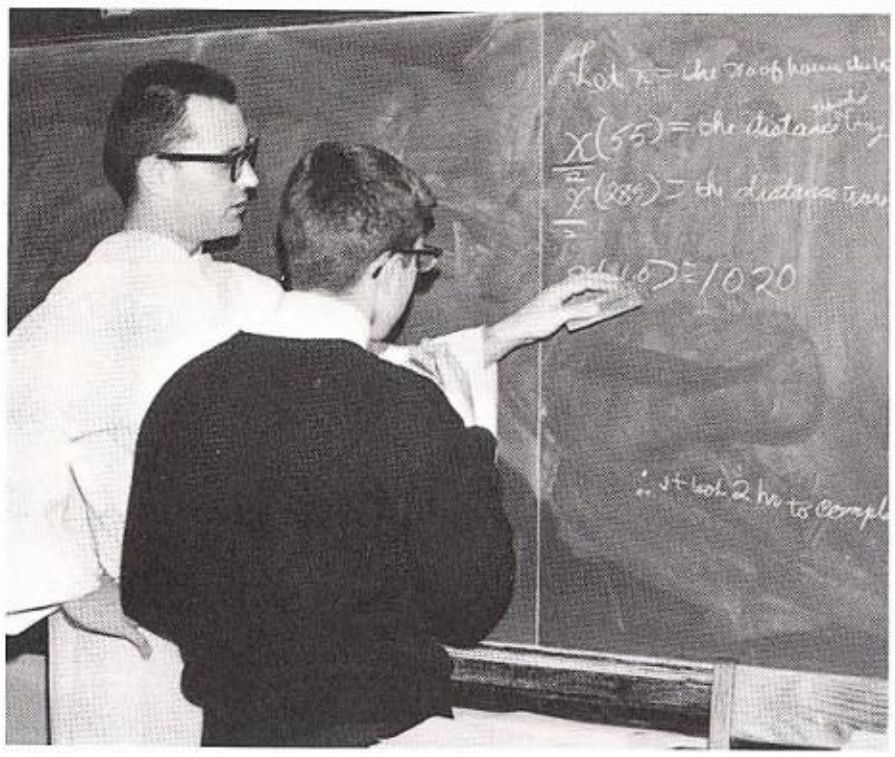


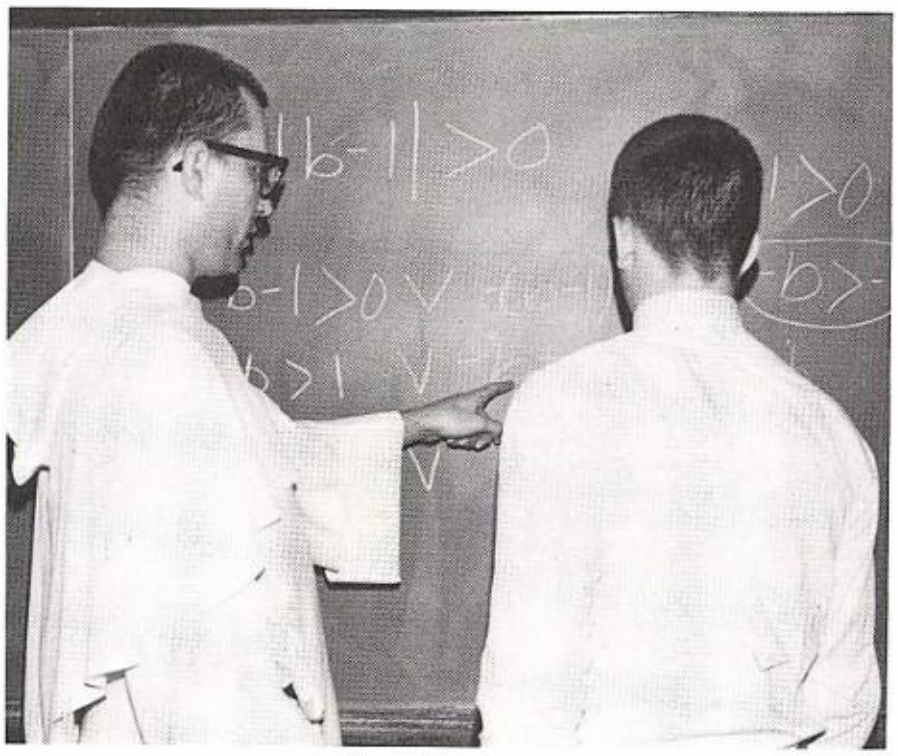
Science

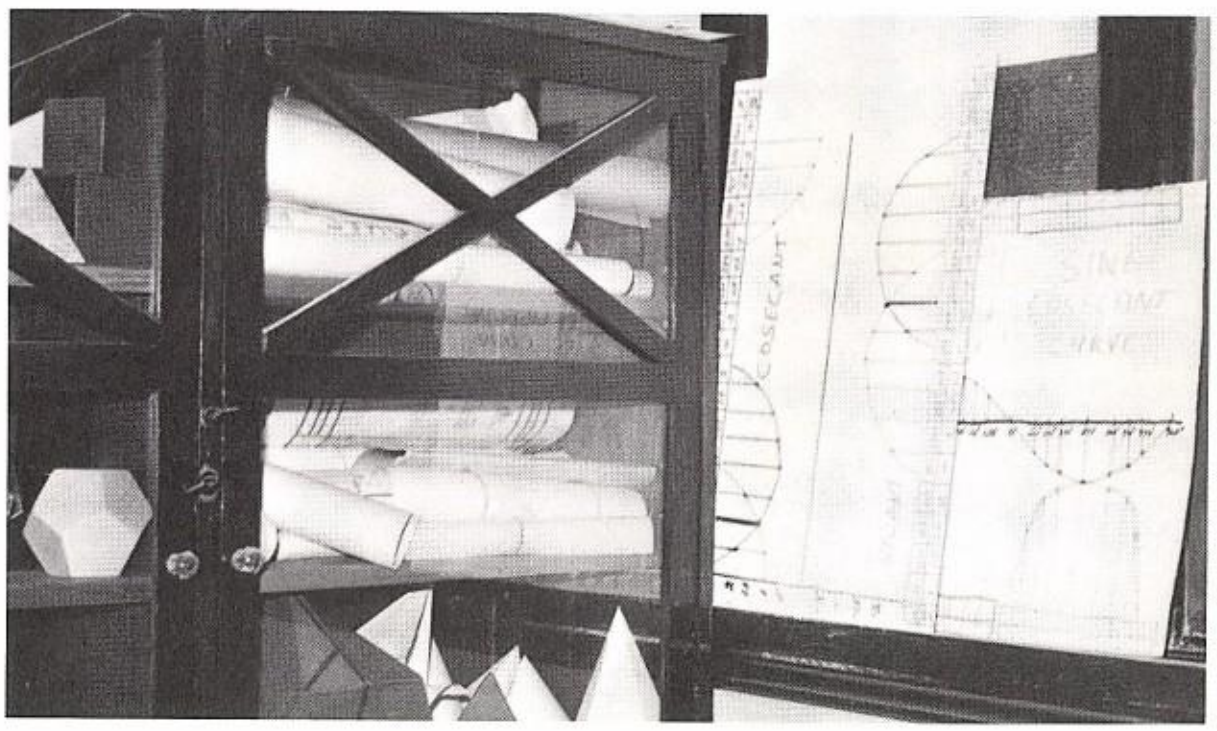
Mathematics

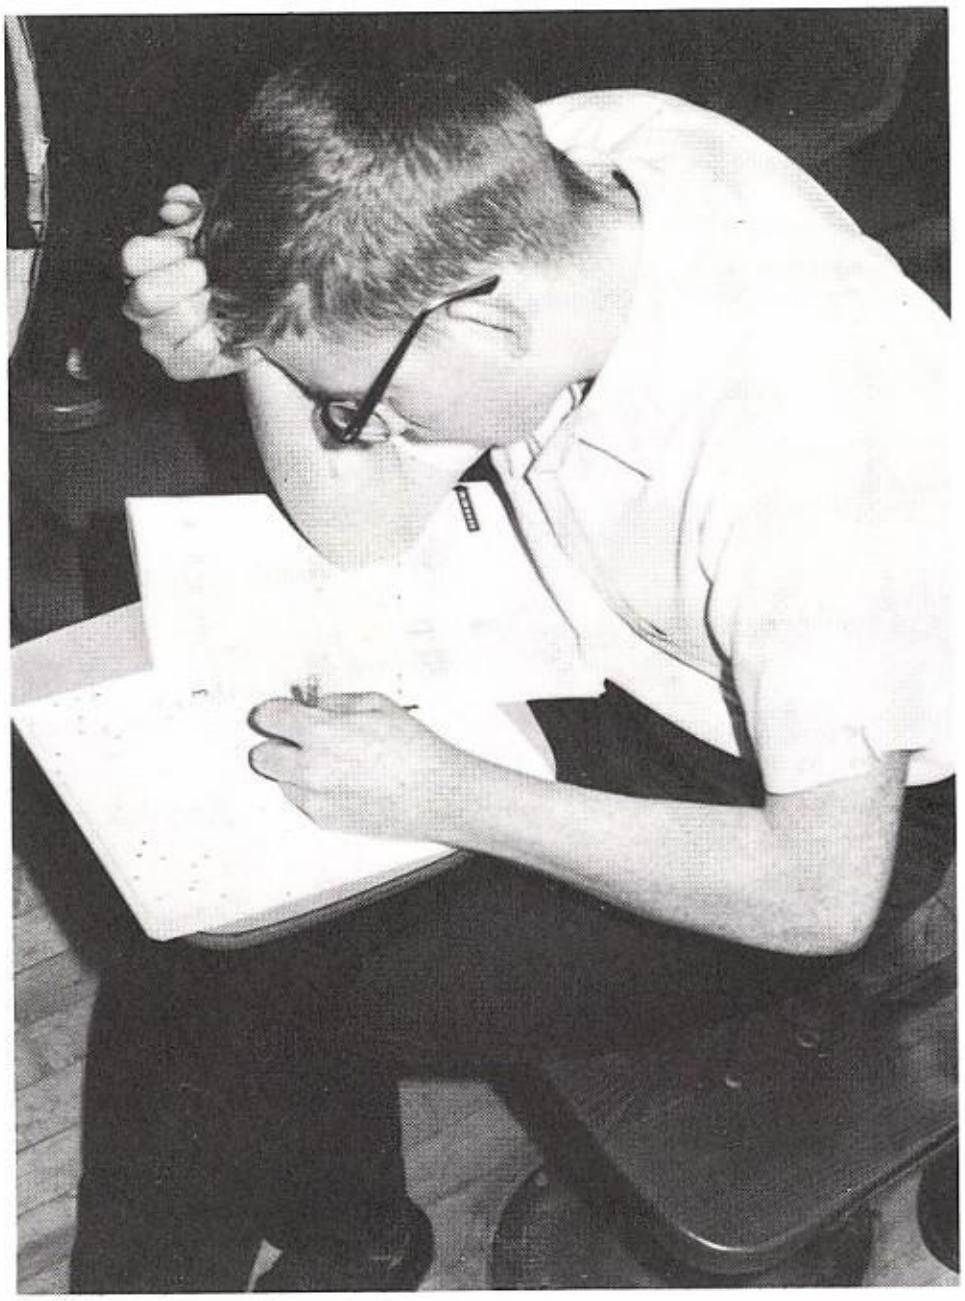
Mathematics, in one form or another, influences almost every field of endeavor. The great majority of colleges and universities are increasing their entrance requirements in mathematics. In order to adequately prepare its students for college, Fenwick now requires three years of high school mathematics. Fenwick, over the past four years, has introduced a modern math program. This year's graduating class was the first to take the full four year plan of courses. Our math program now compares favorably with any similar high school course in the country.

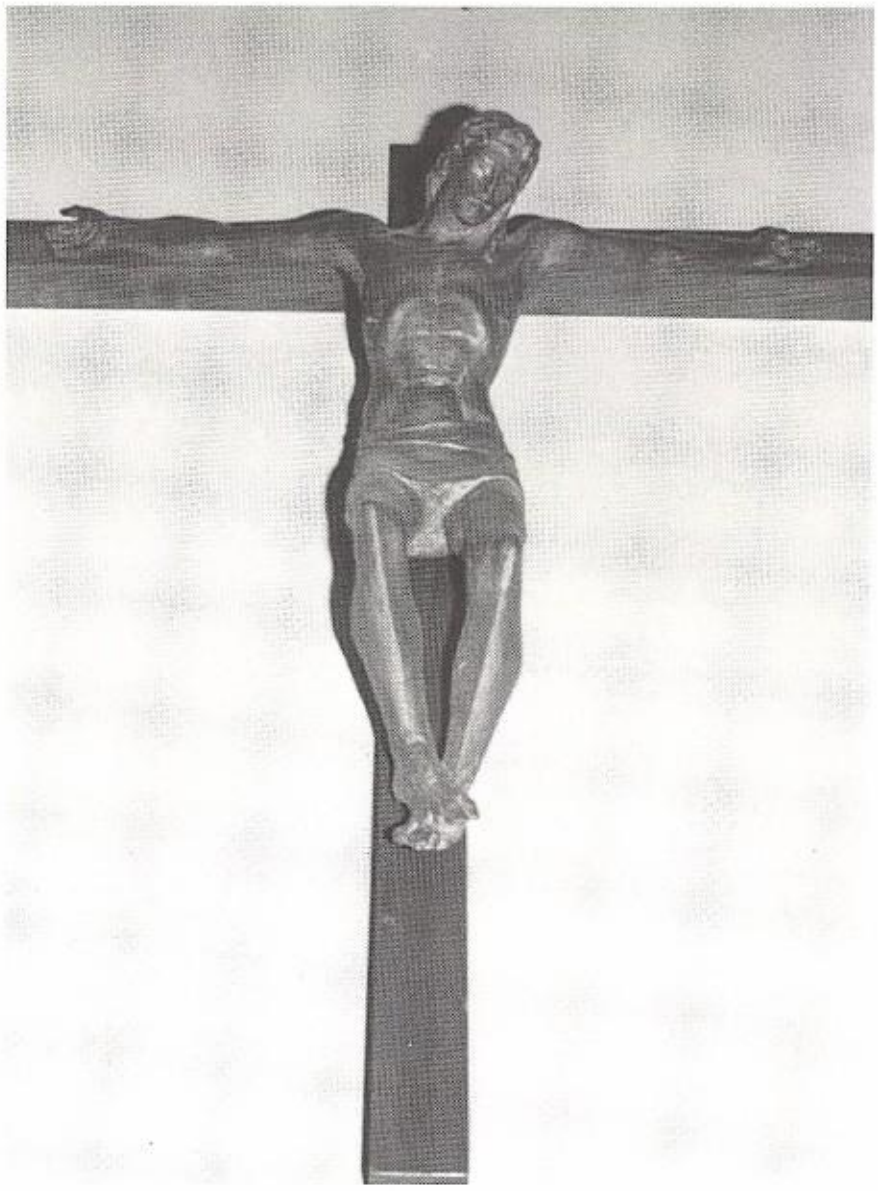
The quality of the program is matched by the quality of its exponents. These men, Mr. Ludwig, Mr. Gazzolo, Mr. Finnell, Father McGrath, Father Robinson, Father Delich, Mr. Barnett, and Mr. Hughes are all participating wholeheartedly in this student-oriented system. Proficiency in teaching is of the utmost importance in making the change-over to the new math a success. Therefore Fenwick is very proud of this fine aggregation of mathematicians.



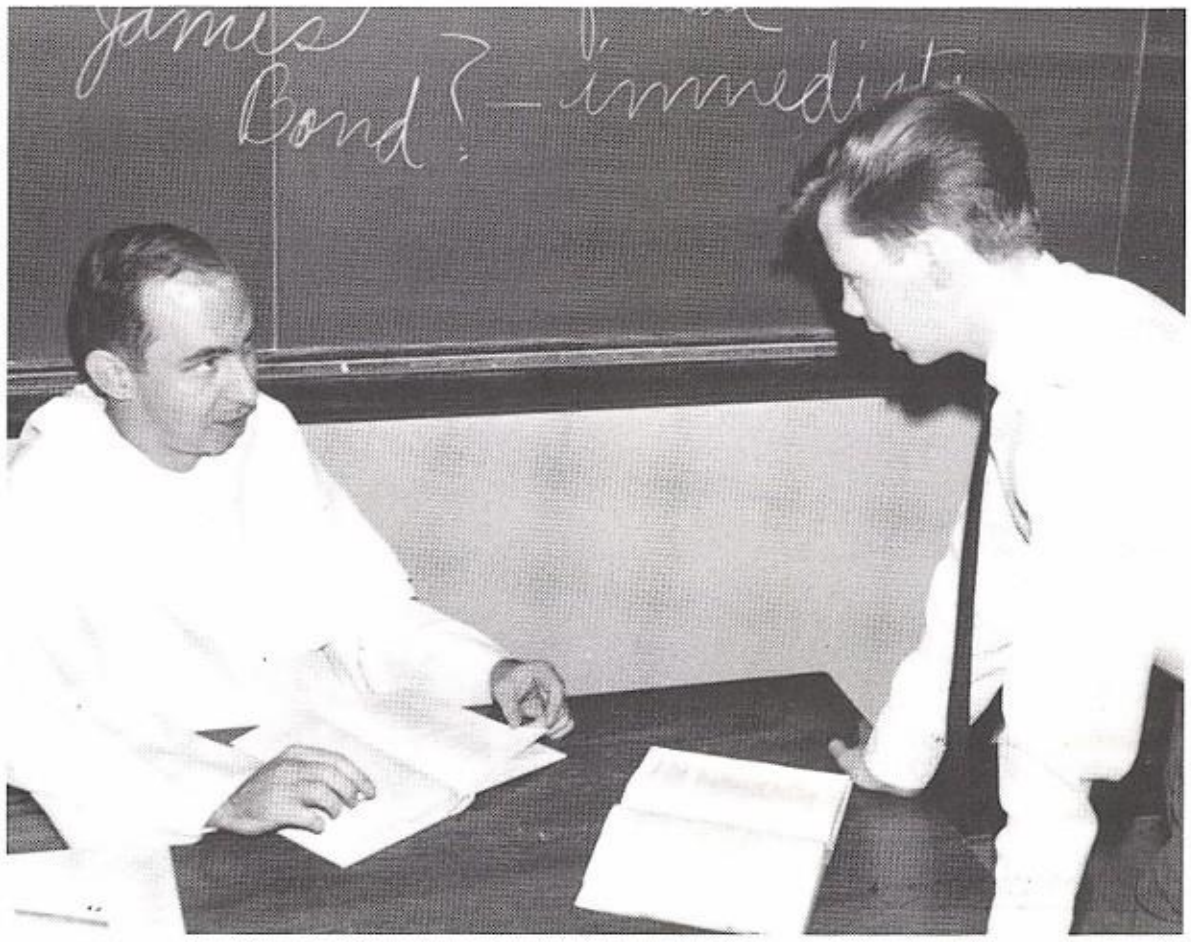








Fathers Wierenga and Nash (above), along with a salesman, discuss the purchase of filmstrips on the history of salvation. At right, Father Wierenga and Steve Kosek discuss the nature of happiness, a question that arises both in Scripture and in contemporary fiction.

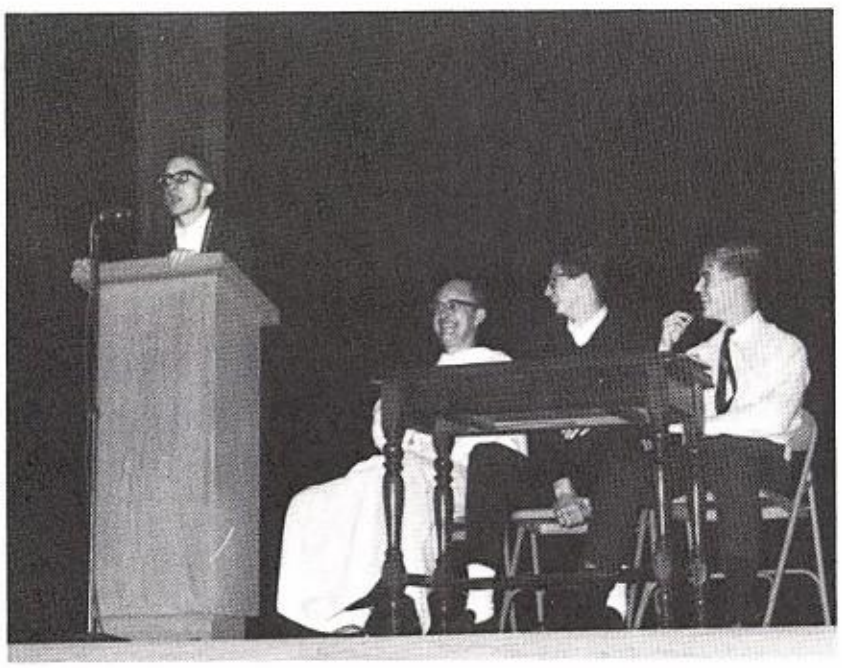


Religion

For all the distinguishing "atmospheric" characteristics of the Catholic high school, the study of religion represents the one tangible curricular difference between the Catholic and non-Catholic school. The knowledge gained in religion class fairly cries for immediate and meaningful application by the student to his personal moral life.

Father Halloran, Father Wierenga, Father Nash, and Father Motl taught the freshman and sophomore classes this year. The freshman textbook concerned itself with the nature and attributes of God, the proofs for his existence, and the beginning books of the Old Testament and the Acts of the Apostles. The sophomore course employed the textbook The Christian Combat in its consideration of virtues and vices in man and its continued study of the Old Testament.

Juniors and seniors each encountered two religion teachers under a new plan introduced this year. The individual teacher each instructed his respective class for one semester. Father Regan's semester with the juniors consisted in a consideration of the Church and the sacraments, while Father Kelly's course was the study of the life of Christ as seen through the accounts of the four Evangelists. In the senior year, Father Mainelli headed an inquiry into the Church's social doctrine, accenting Pope John XXIII's encyclical Pacem in Terris. Father McGinley taught a course in marriage and the individual moral problem.



With historical lore and personal asides, Terry Kelleher (above) keynotes the renewal of Fenwick's Confraternity. Denny Bresnahan (at right), President pro-tem of the Confraternity, signs up lay apostles for work in tutoring immigrants and distributing food to the poor.

Social Studies

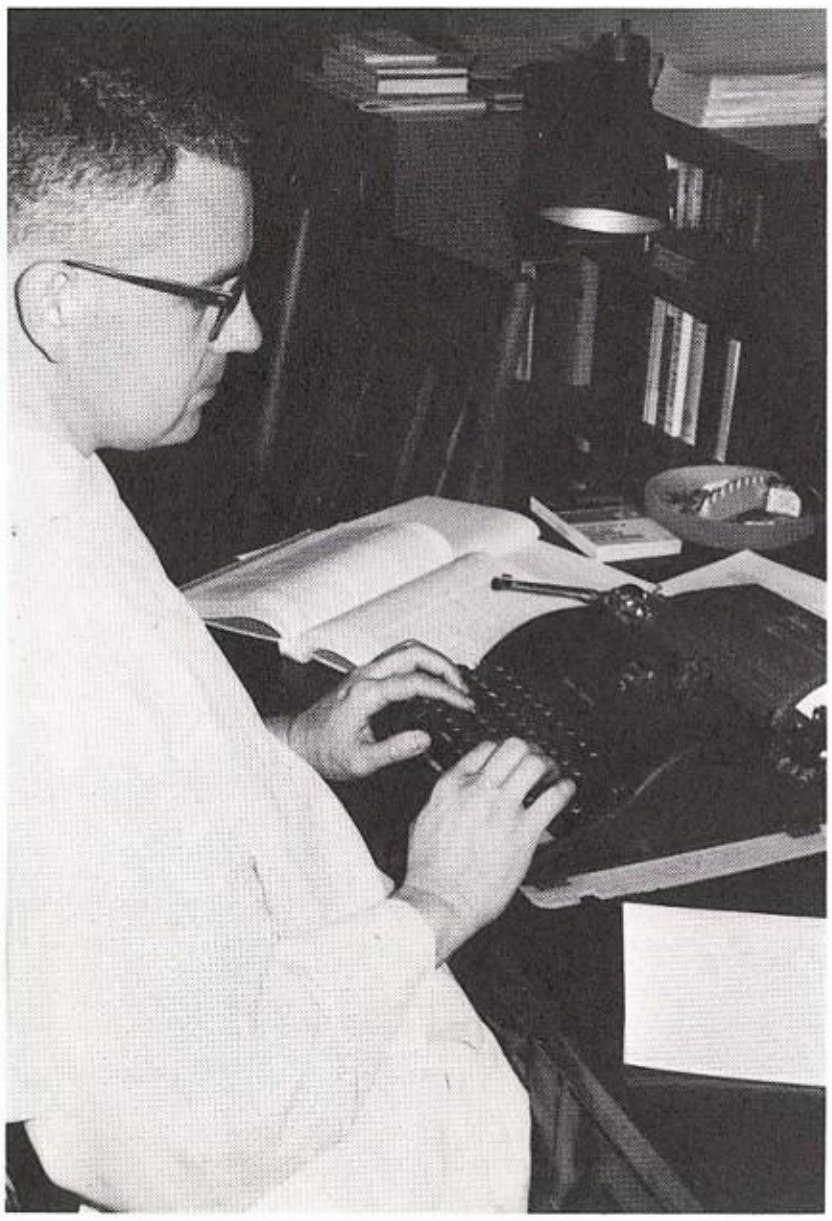
At Fenwick, the humanities have an important place. They take their form in the social studies and are required for two years and offered for a third.

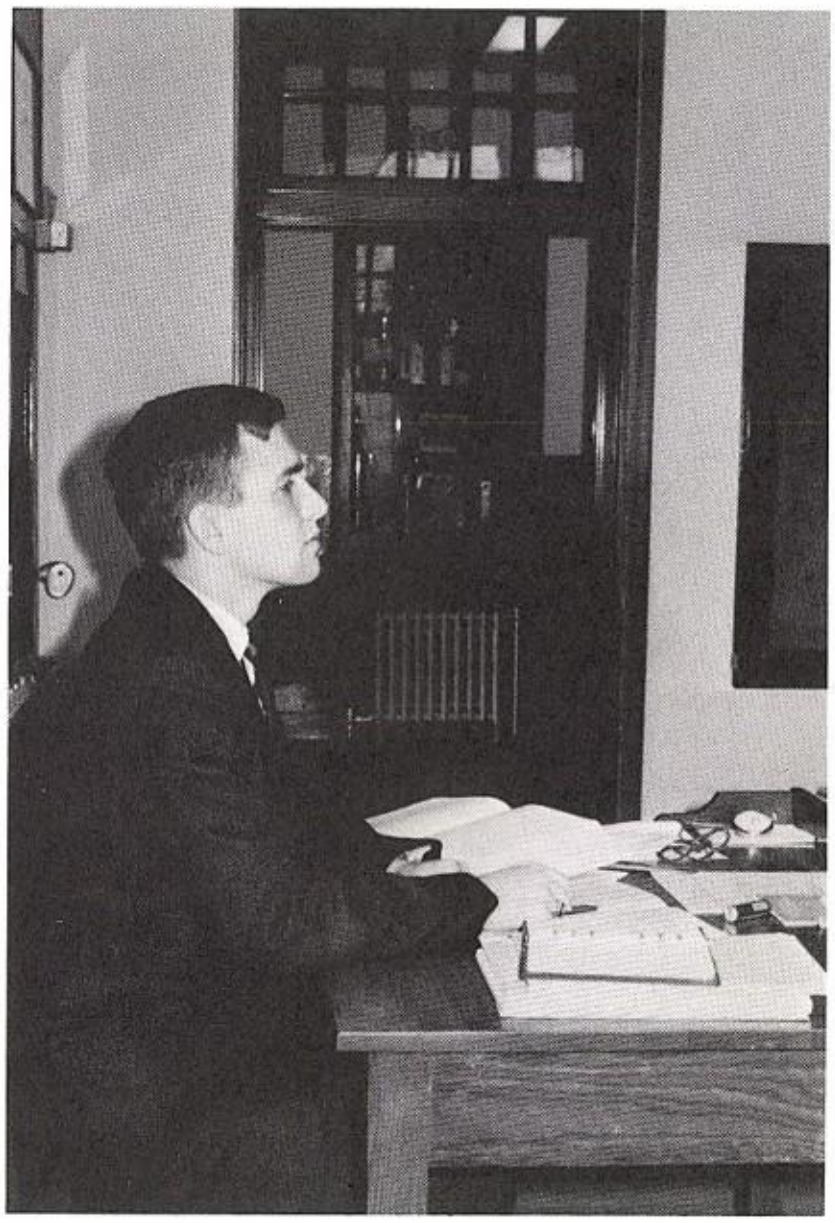
The freshman was required to take Ancient and Medieval History. This course began at the beginning of time and continued until approximately the sixteenth century. The classes were handled by Mr. Spitznagel, Mr. Thallemer, and Mr. Fedorka.

In the sophomore year these studies were supplanted by two science courses. But at the end of his sophomore year, each student had to make a decision upon the elective courses which were to be pursued for the next two years. The prominence of social studies in the curriculum was demonstrated by the fact that an entire course is devoted to their study.

In the junior year every student was required to take American History. In conjunction with this subject was the administration of the Illinois State Constitution test. Every junior must pass this test in order to graduate the following year. Father Schwind and Mr. Ball guided their students to a richer knowledge of our American heritage and passing marks on the Constitution test. Also for the social studies student there was a one semester course in both civics and sociology which were taken jointly, taught by Mr. Thallemer and Father McCormick respectively.

For the seniors, the setup was similar to that of the junior year. World History, which extends freshman studies to the present day, was offered under the tutelage of Mr. Fedorka and Mr. Spitznagel. Business law and economics, each a semester course, were taught by Father Bernacki, Mr. Zimmerman, and Father McCormick.





Father Schwind puts another edition of the syllabus to press as Mr. Ball ponders the meaning of silence. Mr. Fedorka (across) plots the fate of nations for his freshmen.

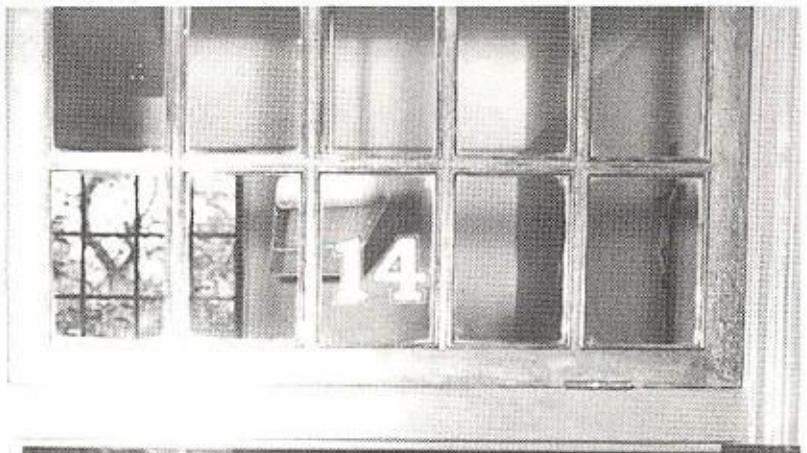
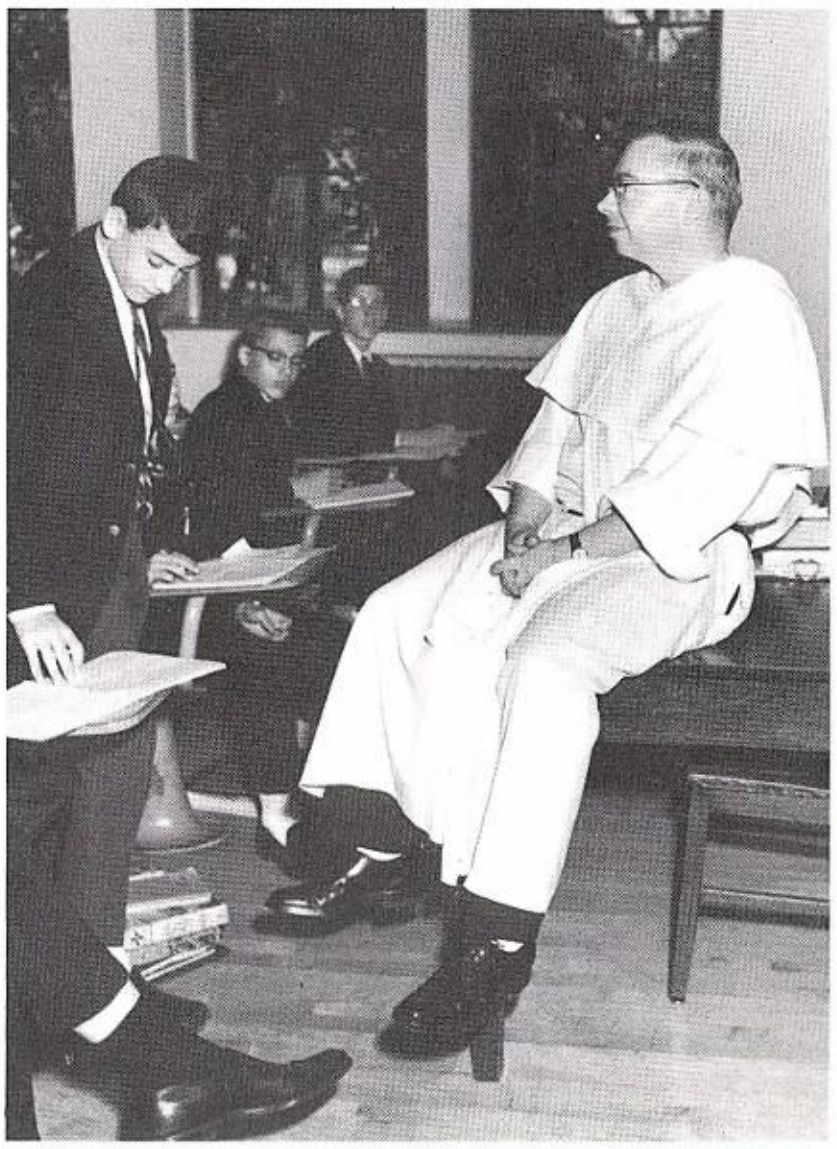
English



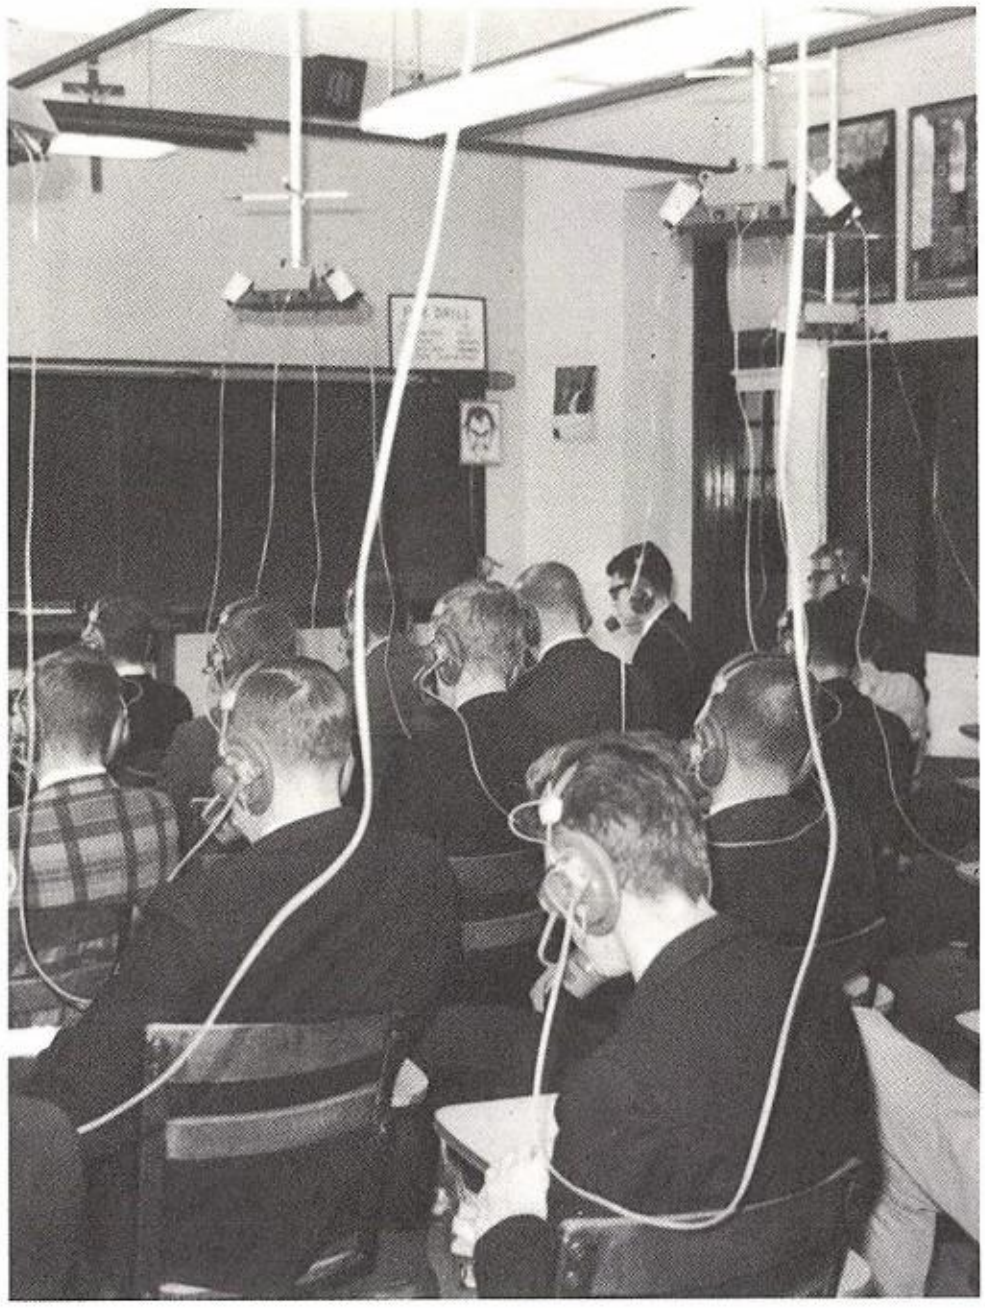


No matter what his occupation, an educated man must live and feel as a sensitive human being and be able to communicate his ideas intelligently and effectively. The Fenwick English Department, with its program of study in literature, grammar, and composition, has for its province this all-important aspect of the student's high school education.

The study of literature is the study of the human animal in his struggle for self-discovery and self-expression. Fenwick's freshman classes sampled the various literary forms. Sophomores studied the literature of England, from Chaucer to the present day. Juniors traced the growth and development of our own still-emerging American literature. A college-level survey of world literature occupied the seniors.

Grammar received great emphasis in the freshman classes, where a new "pilot" course was tested. Father Cochran, the head of the Department and ever the pride of the Old South, instituted a plan for all students to receive instruction in logic, primarily in the sophomore year. In addition, Father Motl trained the freshmen in public speaking.

The challenge of such an ambitious program was more than adequately met by Fenwick's capable corps of English instructors, including: Father Cochran himself, Father Landmesser, Father Fogarty, Father Gerlach, Father Smith, Mr. Hronek, Mr. Langenderfer, Mr. Zimmerman, and Father McGreevy.



Modern Languages

In his first two years at Fenwick, the student gets a taste of the Classics by devoting his energies to the study of Latin. During the last two years the student may choose a language course from among French, German, and Spanish in addition to or instead of two more years of Latin.

In this year's language classes the importance of the spoken word was stressed as well as the written word. A new concept was the conducting of French classes entirely in French. This program was supplemented by the use of the Foreign Service Institute Series, the same course which the State Department gives to people enrolled in the Diplomatic Corps.

Father Ostdiek handled all of the French classes. Similarly, Father Ashenbrener was the sole German instructor. Father Ashenbrener also served as moderator of the highly active German Club. Spanish classes were divided between the talents of Mr. Jamison and Mr. Ortiz. Father Smithers, Father Hren, Mr. Galla, Mr. Manalo, and Mr. DeGrazia taught Latin to the various classes.

The languages were taught in the context of the customs and histories of the particular countries in which they are spoken. The primary goal of the modern language teachers this year was to develop the student's ability to engage in a simple conversation and to read with competence. Textual comprehension rather than the antiquated word-by-word translation became the ultimate objective.

"To promote understanding between parents and teachers and to benefit the school both socially and financially" is the combined goal of the Mothers' and Fathers' clubs.

The Mothers' Club, besides holding their monthly meetings, sponsored card parties, luncheons, and dinners. They also furnished counseling offices on the third floor, contributed money to the library for general upkeep and purchasing of books, and they planned to relight the Sophomore section. As usual, they joined forces with the Fathers' Club to sponsor the various class nights, which enabled the parents and teachers to iron out any "misunderstandings."

The Fathers kept up their good work by sponsoring the Football and Spring Sports Banquets. To enable the Fenwick tankers to defend their title, the Fathers raised the money to send them to Philadelphia for the National Catholic Championship Swimming Meet.

While Fr. Wierenga stayed on as Mother Club moderator, Fr. Bernacki was replaced by Fr. Casimir Delich, who came to Fenwick from Bishop Lynch School, Dallas, Texas.

The Servers Club is one of Fenwick's largest extra-curricular organizations. The number of freshmen who join each year is exceptionally large; moreover, this club's membership does not suffer the usual attrition as its raw recruits grow into seasoned upper classmen.

The club gives the high school boy the opportunity to continue his grade school routine of assisting at the celebration of the Mass in a special manner. Since the changes in liturgical practice, Fenwick students have also had the opportunity to serve as Lectors at the school Masses. Some members of the club participate only as Lectors, others also act as acolytes. Besides serving at the regular noon Masses, members are also called upon to serve at Benediction, to prepare the auditorium altar for special Masses, and to care for the vestments and furnishings.

For the past three years Father Ostdiek has moderated the Servers Club. He assigns the personnel for serving and reading and sees that all liturgical functions are conducted in a correct and fitting manner. This year, two members, Paul Buchbinder and Michael Cassin, also functioned as sacristans, keeping the sacristy and its contents in good order.

The Debating Team is an organization dedicated to the development of such skills as training the mind to think logically, and training the man to express his thoughts clearly and coherently. Participants in such activities as the delivery of both original and unoriginal speeches as well as other forms of forensics, are great aids in the development of these skills. The ultimate result of this training in the promotion of Christian leadership which is the primary purpose of the team.

The program in which Fenwick debaters take part, is constantly expanding. Within recent years, members have competed in both local and national contests. As the realization of the many benefits available from training in debate has spread, the number of debating organizations has largely increased, and the number of debates in which our team is now able to participate numbers nearly two hundred.

Father Conway's instruction and guidance has again led the senior team through a successful season. Trips were made to Boston and Detroit where the team was represented by such members as J. Davis, D. Leuer, D. Cheely, and C. Mulaney. The junior team under Father Motl has also been quite successful and has numerous victories to its credit.

Junior debaters use their file boxes for instant reference to facts, figures and the perfect squelch.

The Fenwick Rifle Club, under the direction of Father Smithers, is an elite corps of men with steady hands and true eyes. All prospective members must take a basic training course in which the rules of safety and proper care of firearms are firmly inculcated before the student is allowed to actually fire a rifle.

For evidence of Fenwick's ability to produce marksmen one needs only to refer to the impressive number of records that our marksmen have broken in the past year. In addition to their own competitive rounds during regular firing sessions at the Austin armory, the members of the Rifle Club strive for the position of Expert Rifleman, a reward for exceptional ability requiring a perfect score of fifty on a target.

This year the club's best marksmen were D. Del Boccio, J. Claps, V. Claps and R. Bambara. Dan Del Boccio, the club's president, holds the club records in the positions of prone, sitting and standing; Joe Claps fired the highest series in the kneeling position. This year five members achieved the status of Expert Rifleman. Of these, Vito Claps ranks as the top Expert of the club.

Fenwick's Science Club declares itself an exclusive and busy organization; its stated purpose is the promotion of study and research in any area of science. Fr. Delich and Mr. Towey moderate its far-flung activities. The Club's elected officers were John Davis, Ted Labotka, and Jim Wronkiewicz. Regular meetings this year featured demonstrations of scientific principles by members or by science instructors. Also, the club viewed movies obtained from the Atomic Energy Commission. Trips to the Crerar Library and the Museum of Science and Industry enabled our budding scientists to view, read about, and study the latest in scientific breakthroughs and discoveries.

The main concern of the Science Club, however, was sponsoring students' efforts in various scientific competitions. The Fenwick Science Fair gathered and exhibited some fifty projects. Of these, some were judged suitable for entrance in the Chicago Area Science Fair, held at the International Amphitheater, and the state high school science fair. Special effort was made to urge interested freshmen to begin projects to which they can devote four years' effort. Several members entered research papers in city and state-wide contests. Other activities included workshops for special interests, the construction of terraria for the biology laboratory, and the compilation of local weather data for the year.

This year the moderatorship of the Wick was given to newcomer Fr. McGreevy as a welcoming present. Under his guidance the chiefs of the staff continued the relentless search for new and better ideas which marks every progressive institution. Besides extending its nose for news even farther into school affairs, this year's Wick introduced movie reviews, editorial comics and opinion polls. Teachers' comments, hardly something new, were newly formalized in the regular column, "Teachers Comment."

Among the brighter highlights of the 1965-66 Wick were the interviews with outstanding personalities, both teachers and students. These interviews alternately sparkled and bristled with candid views and useful suggestions. Even the editorials got into the rough and tumble of journalistic play as they began to expose the true views of the editors on matters of moment, for example, the new Student Council.

The ever popular "Gym Shorts" and "Page Five" remained so. Their light, even frivolous, tone nicely balanced the gravity of the paper's major concerns.

During the first semester, Mike Morrissey and Paul Buchbinder were editors, succeeded in the second semester by John Kudlaty and Mike Cronin. Geof Gneuhs and Bob Maganuco were feature editors; Tom O'Meara and Tom Pisapia, business managers.

Father Cochran used to be the moderator of The Yew Tree. This year he became the moderator of Transition. Why? Because the name of The Yew Tree was changed to Transition. Why? Because Father Cochran, editor Terry Kelleher, and assistant editor John Vranicar didn't know what a yew tree is. And when they found out what a yew tree is, they couldn't figure out what yew trees have to do with Fenwick or with literary magazines. John Vranicar said, "Let's call it Transition." Why? Because he'd once written a poem called "Transition" and, besides, why not? Father Cochran became the moderator of Transition.

Fenwick students gave their literary efforts to Father Cochran and to the editors and to their English teachers. Some of these efforts were good and some were printed in Transition. Some of them were bad and were printed at the authors' expense or not at all. Some students drew pictures that appeared in the magazine. Transition is the kind of magazine that more students can get into, and so, the kind of a project that more students can get more out of. Most students read Transition when it came out; all of them looked at the pictures.

Archeology Club

A foment of activity was the Anthropology Club's hallmark. The Archeology Lab was opened daily for the process of classifying Indian remains and various other artifacts.

But the members of the Anthropology Club also ventured far and often from the confines of their home base.

The members toured the Chicago Natural History Museum where they examined the relics on display. Later they viewed slides on archeological techniques and excavations in Southern Indiana. They went to the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago. There they were taken on a tour and heard speakers from noted colleges discuss anthropology.

The highlight of the Club's numerous activities was an expedition to Dickson Indian Mounds near Lewiston, Illinois during Easter vacation.

Talent is always an elusive attribute. But several members of the Blackfriars Guild captured it on December 8. That night the Guild presented two one-act plays, the first such enterprise at Fenwick in recent years. There was strong evidence in the audience reaction that more presentations of this kind would be well received.

The pictures to the left and immediately below depict scenes from "A Happy Journey frrom Camden to Trenton." The play centered about the dominant personality of the mother in a family of five. The mother was played by Sue Rizzo, the gently hen-pecked husband by Jim Dooley. The other characters were portrayed by Frank Mann, Terri Mondo, Tom Stocky and Rosemary Rinella.

"The Monkey's Paw" by W. W. Jacobs, a powerful dramatic presentation on the theme of greed, was also presented that night by the Guild. (A scene from it is pictured below.) The story line concerned the acquisition of a charmed monkey's paw by what had been a close-knit family. Possession of the paw assured them of anything they wished for; the latent avarice which this opportunity exposed led to the tragic destruction of the family. Cast members were Dennis Concannon, Pam Burry, Richard O'Rourke, Frank Piha and Ed Collins.

In both of these plays the actors ably handled the difficult task of creating scenes of serious and delicate emotion. Their success depended greatly on the skillful direction of Mr. Ed Ludwig.

Again this year, under the direction of Father Ashenbrener, the German Club was the action club, the club that saw things and did things. Fresh from another summer trip to Europe, Father strove to mold his organization in such a way as to implement the member's learning of Deutsh in class.

This year's club had seniors Ray Mueller and Roy Nosek as President and Vice-president respectively. It was their task to plan and promote, along with Father, the Club's meetings and activities. Since this was the action group, it was also the duty of the officers to discharge any and all members who did not take the desired active part. There was no room in the "Deutsche Verein" for Dummkopfs. This accounts for the Club's high standards for membership: the applicant must be a senior, he must have at least one other extra-curricular activity, and he must pass an initiation test, which consisted this year of a walk down Lincoln Avenue.

Besides the club's sponsoring the summer trip of learning the leisure, the Club this year traveled to Milwaukee during the semester break to visit a few of the city's German highlights, including dinner at Mader's. The Club also ventured to a couple of Chicago's restaurants.

The Chess Club, one of the largest clubs in Fenwick memberwise (58 in all), has really shown its growth in prominence among Fenwick's clubs this year. Under the leadership of Father Cochrane and Mister Galla, our strategists continued to make their mark in the various tournaments throughout the Chicagoland area. In a tournament sponsored by the Chicago Catholic Chess Conference, the chessmen finished fifth against twenty-five high schools in our area including Lane Tech, De Paul Academy, Loyola Academy, La Grange, Lyons Township, and Farragut Military Academy.

The high point of the club's year was having Mister Pal Benko, a ranking Grandmaster and co-holder of the title of the United States Open Champion, put on an exhibition of simultaneous chess games against more than sixty players from the area.

In the intra-club tourney, Larry Berlandi, club president, took first place in the Senior division and Andy Lucas captured the Junior Division trophy.

Although the club will lose its two best members through graduation (Larry Berlandi and Rich Domovic), the frequent practice and study done by the underclassmen promises that Fenwick's Chess Club will be a power for a long time to come.

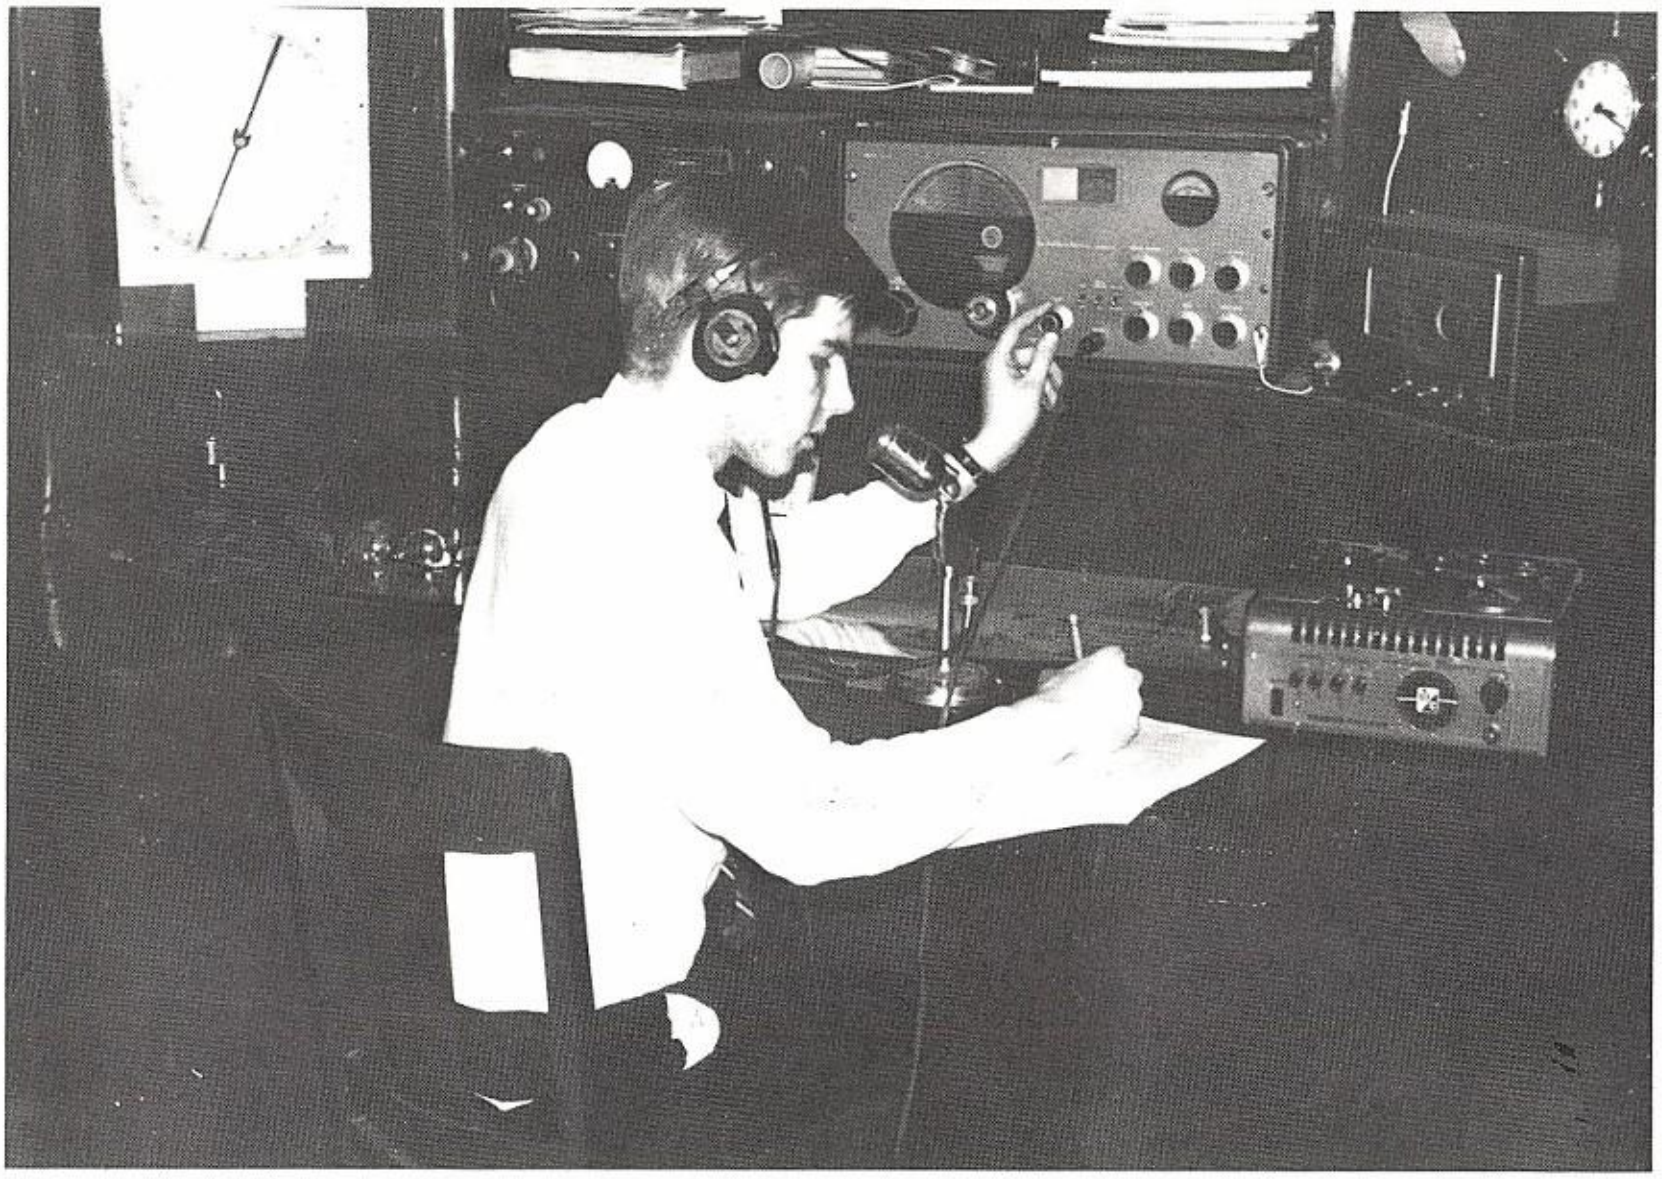
Radio Club



In the field of electronic devices, those which promote and aid communication stand out. The Fenwick Radio Club has adapted effective electronic communication via radio and television as its goal. The members are not all licensed radio operators. In fact, anyone with just the slightest interest in radio operation is encouraged to join. With Fr. Robinson guiding his development, the operator works toward obtaining his license. Once the license has been earned, the "ham" may purchase or build his own radio set which is operated according to the rules laid down by the Federal Communications Commission. The hours of study and manual labor pay off when the operator receives calling cards from people he has talked to in countless places, as Tokyo, Japan; Sydney, Australia; Quang Ngoa, Viet Nam; and many other such places.

The Radio Club maintains an antenna and operates as station W9ANF. The Club's facilities and apparatus are open to use by those members who don't have their own sets and even those who do. It is interesting to note that nearly all Radio Club members have been or will be physics students, for radio communication is a practical application of natural laws.

Ziegweid, R. Clark, M. Matuck, J. Consolo.

Under the guidance of Father Edward Nash, its moderator, and Mr. Paul Villano, its director, the Glee Club achieved a high degree of excellence with only a handful of trained vocalists. The members demonstrated the skill they had acquired (through long hours of practice sessions as seen above) in spirited performances at the annual Christmas and Spring Concerts.

The Glee Club ventured to the Loyola Talent Revue Competition, where Fenwick had been the most recent winner. A new addition to the chorister's agenda was their participation in a musical revue at McCormick Place. During the Christmas holidays, the voice of the Glee Club perked up many hospital patients (below) as the Club made a tour of city and village hospitals.

This year there was a great deal of adjustment in the Club's repertoire. It included liturgical, classical, and even popular tunes. Such selections as "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Hello, Dolly!" showed the variety of the melodies intoned by the Glee Club. This served the purpose of the Club, entertainment, and allowed it to appeal to a more diversified audience. The ability of the Glee Club to adjust to present-day caprices while yet retaining the "old standards" was a source of justifiable pride to Fenwick's progressive society.

The Fenwick Band is the largest and one of the most active of all school activities. Its schedule of programs spans the entire school year. In the fall the Band entertains during the half-times of the football games. It presents a program of musical arrangements and synchronized marching. After the football season has ended, the musicians begin preparation for the Christmas Concert with each member practicing from two to three nights a week. The Concert consists of a variety of numbers with something for every musical taste. Although student attendance has fallen in recent years, the Band continues to give an enjoyable performance. After the semester break comes more practice, this time aimed at the Spring Concert. Held just before Easter, this concert is similar to the Christmas Program in its overall musical appeal, but in addition to this Concert there is the presentation of the Arion Award to the best musician. Even though practices occupy much of their time, many band members still find time to participate in other school activities. The Band is under the direction of Mr. Cyril Race and Mr. Beranek. Leadership is provided by president Dennis Schneider and student representatives from all classes.

Football 1965: 4—3—1

Fenwick	7—12	Pius XI

The 1965 Fenwick football team had all the ingredients of a successful season: experience, desire, and ability; but sometimes they forgot the importance of the scoreboard. With many of last years regulars returning, Mike Fillichio accomplished his task of fielding a team with a penetrating offensive attack and a sturdy defensive wall.

After many months of preparation the team and the student body were ready for their first test of the 1965 season. Pius XI of Milwaukee, who many times returned home empty-handed, was finally able to salvage both a 12—7 victory and a game ball. In addition to the long list of Fenwick firsts the Friars played their first night game at Gately Stadium against the Crusaders of Brother Rice. The Friars ended up with only a 6—6 tie and a very disheartened team.

The Black and White then traveled up to Loyola Stadium whence they again fell short of both the goal line and everyone's expectations. The tall timber of the Northwood threw their weight around and dealt Fenwick a 14—0 defeat.

In a week the Friars were back to host the Gordon Tech Rams. After repeatedly failing to cash in on breaks the Friars dropped a close 3—0 decision. On the following Sunday Fenwick traveled to Hansen Stadium where they met the rugged Red Horde, the defending City Champions. This week the Fighting Friars went on the warpath and scalped Weber with a 6—0 victory. A 25—0 feast of the Holy Trinity Tigers followed.

On Homecoming, Halloween Day, the highly skillful but underrated DePaul Demons faced an inspired Fenwick squad. In keeping with the tradition of never having lost a homecoming game the Demons were decisively beaten by a 18—6 score. To close out the season the Friars met St. Philip. With only about a half a minute remaining in the final quarter Fenwick put the game on ice with a spectacular touchdown pass making the 31—12 victory the most exciting of the season. In compiling all the statistics Fenwick comes up with another winning season with a 4—3—1—record.

Many thanks go to the coaching staff of Mike Fillichio, Len Tyrrell, Johnny Lattner, and Pete Mitchell for instilling in the Fighting Friars the desire and ability to be the best; and for building a team that all Fenwick men, past, present, and future, can proudly follow.

Although the ratio of wins over losses left a little to be desired in Fenwick's record this year, the Friars made themselves felt as a strong power in the Catholic League. No opponent came out of a game with Fenwick without the definite conclusion that they had earned whatever they had gained. Due to an inability to punch the ball across the goal line, the Friars experienced two losses by margins of a field goal and a touchdown, and a tie. Many potential offensive thrusts were nipped in the bud by the shrill whistles and the red handkerchiefs of the men in stripes. Fenwick's staut defensive wall made every yard seem like a mile to the opposing teams and none of these teams escaped without numerous aches and pains, bruises, and bumps due to the hard, fundamental, and rugged play of the Friars.

Rarely was a play seen in which All-Stater (and-co-captain) Dick Caldarazzo was not involved. Other Friars who received various all-league or all-city mention were fullback Jim Carstens, tackle Jim Anderson, and quarterback Joe Grill. The Friars' offensive plays, which started with centers Mike Gurgone and Terry Goggin and were executed by Grill and senior Rich Pettineo, made full use of the numerous and talented Fenwick backs including Jess Collins, Howie Burgh, Kevin Brennan, Bob Doyle, and Carstens. The running back positions had so many candidates that Steve Flanagan and Dale Cowel were switched to end to complement the skills of Rich Fourie and Bob Meyers. These backs and ends owe much of their success to the advice, prodding, encouragement, and scoldings of Coach John Lattner.

As is usual in the Fenwick tradition and perhaps due to the extensive knowledge and experience of Head Coach Mike Fillichio and Line Coach Len Tyrrell, the Friar lines, especially defensively, crushed many an opposing line. Opened by co-captains Bill Sather and Dick Caldarazzo and tackles Bob Paschke and Jim Anderson were gaping holes for the running backs. These four, along with defensive specialists like Gary Kelley and Mike Marsico, were responsible for holding opposing runners in check and for keeping the foes' quarterbacks in a state of constant fear with the emphasis on pursuit and gang-tackling.

Frosh Attain Spirit of Fenwick

As usual, the Frosh football team fared extremely well this year with an inevitable winning season. Even though the freshmen gridders' record wasn't the most impressive ever chalked up in Fenwick's ledger, (3—2—1), it did, however, exemplify the resounding spirit of all past Fenwick players and of all players yet to come. They also had another quality that goes hand-in-hand with spirit. The quality that is brought out is their tremendous will to win. Without this will to win, the linemen wouldn't practice blocking and tackling, bag drills, sled drills, and "one on one" until they were ready to drop. Without the will to win, the backs and ends wouldn't practice passing and running plays and wind sprints until their legs feel like lead weights and their lungs like they're burning up. Yes, a will to win can either make or break a team, and it seems that it has and always will make Fenwick's teams.

At the helm of this year's Frosh eleven were Coach Pete Mitchell, a newcomer to the Fenwick coaching staff, and Coach Dan O'Brien, who "moonlights" as the varsity teams' trainer. The team's big line consisted of ends Tom O'Shea and Bill Lucas and interior linemen Mike O'Hara, John Kucera, Cliff Leahy, Jim Williams, Jim Drennan, and Ed Hallinan. The line was complemented by backs John Burke, Mike Carmichael, John Gill, Ernie Di Benedetto, Mike Nardella, Ralph Macro, and Bob Michelotti.

It was a great season for Fenwick's Senior basketball team. Bill Shay, acclaimed Coach of the Year by Chicago's prep sports writers, led his unheralded Friars to the Catholic League championship, Fenwick's first in sixteen years.

The Friars opened the campaign by dropping eight of eleven practice games, but with the start of championship play, the team was ready to go places. Fenwick began auspiciously by hanging a 66—53 loss on Loyola's Ramblers. Six consecutive road contests followed, of which the Friars won four. The team closed the regular season with five home games, losing only to Gordon Tech's North Section champions.

Tied with Loyola for second place in the North, Fenwick won a 59—46 showdown with the Ramblers, thereby earning the right to enter the Catholic League play-offs. The Friars were opposed in the semi-finals by St. Rita, co-champions of the South Section and reputedly the best team in the area. Fenwick beat them in an overtime cliff-hanger, 62—60. Next up was Mt. Carmel, with the Catholic League championship at stake. Fenwick made it back-to-back upsets, winning the title 62—52. Marshall nipped the Friars in the City Championship game, 62—56, but Fenwick had the big one.

Fenwick's best performer was six foot six All Catholic League and All Chicago Area center Denny Bresnahan, undoubtedly one of the top prep basketball players in the country. Joe Grill's fine shooting (just under 15 points a game) and the excellent floor-work and rebounding of Steve Flanagan were likewise instrumental in the Friars' championship season. Rugged Jim Martinkus and back-court ace John Sanderlin, whose great defensive play was the key to victory in the title game, rounded out the starting five. Fred Fagan, called "the best sixth man in the area," and Bill Buerger were superb in the clutch.

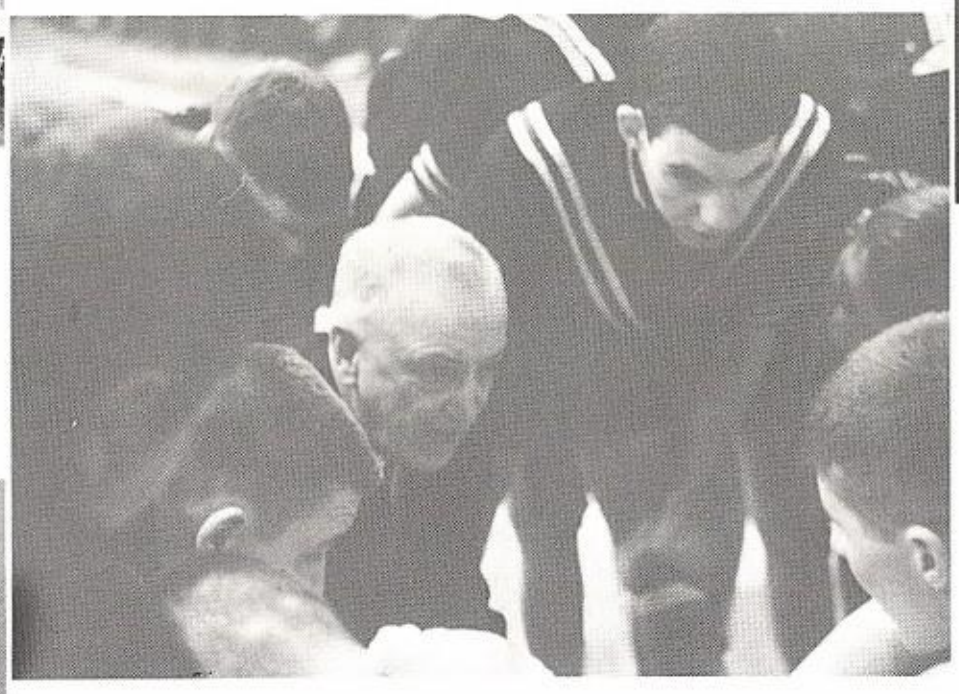
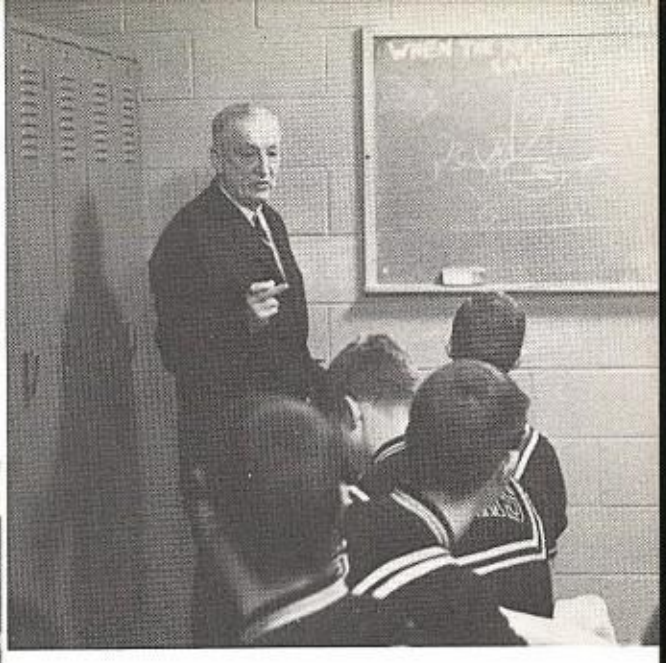
The Many Faces of the Coach of the Year





"You are a Cinderella team," Mt. Carmel basketball coach Howie Fagan told Fenwick's newly crowned 1966 Catholic League champions, "and you have the best coach in the country." That coach is Bill Shay, named Coach of the Year by a unanimous vote of the Chicago Prep Sports Writers' Association.

Bill Shay has been coaching basketball since 1933, at St. Philip, De La Salle and Fenwick in the Catholic League, and at Loyola University. Still he was able to call this year's Catholic League championship his "greatest victory." With the able support of Assistant Coach Jerry Hughes, Mr. Shay took a team that simply didn't figure and led them past such giants as St. Rita and Mt. Carmel to Fenwick's first senior title in sixteen years. He was, in the words of Captain Denny Bresnahan, "the man who put us where we are."

But Mr. Shay is more than a great basketball coach. As long as he has been associated with the school, he has made us proud of Fenwick. He has taught us all, by the example of his conduct, what it means to be a gentleman.

Fenwick will long remember 1966 as the year we went all the way—with Mr. Bill Shay.

The 1966 Juniors—Young and Erratic

This year's junior basketball team could claim only one returning regular from Fenwick's Section champions of a year ago. Inexperience almost invariably makes for a tough season. This season was not an exception.

The team lost eight of their twelve practice contests, including a win and two reverses in the Fenwick Junior Tournament for a fourth-place finish (thanks in part to a first round bye). When the regular season began, however, the Friars started fast with a decisive 65—53 defeat of Loyola. Unable to maintain this momentum, Fenwick proceeded to drop four straight on the road before whipping Holy Trinity 74—70. The Friars then sustained a one-sided defeat at the hands of Weber's North Section Champions, sandwiched between close losses to Loyola and Gordon Tech. The experience gained in the course of a long, hard schedule finally began to manifest itself in Fenwick's final three games, in which the Friars ran up very high scores and beat De Paul, St. Philip, and Holy Trinity quite handily. Fenwick wound up with a respectable 5—7 log in league play.

Captain Bob Donovan, whose all-around play helped to settle the younger players, was Coach Bill Shay's lone senior starter, but football captain Dick Caldarazzo returned to see much action, doing an excellent job on the backboards. Among the juniors, giving promise of great things in the season to come, were Marty Grill, the battler; Bob Donlan, the sharp-shooter; Pat Madden, the rebounder and scorer; Bill Wilkie, the ultra-defender; Jim (Otto) Mullen; and P. J. Hayes.

Flies and Bantams

As is the tradition of the Friar frosh-soph basketball teams, the flies and bantams again fielded a strong aggregation in the Catholic League competition. Designed to train in the fundamentals and to give valuable experience to the varsity stars of tomorrow, the flies and bantams were coached by Mr. Jerry Hughes.

The bantams, those freshmen and sophomores over the 5'9" height limit, were one of the tallest aggregations ever assembled at Fenwick, topped by 6'7" Bob Fittin. Led by Jim Martinkus, the bantams got off to a flying start in their encounters. The team suffered a few setbacks when Martinkus was lost to the varsity, but they bounced back and finished strong with a record of fifteen wins and six losses. Others who saw much action were Pat Bresnahan (yes, another Bresnahan,), Wally Tarzon, Kevin Brennan, Mark Pinkowski, and freshmen Bill Lucas and Dan Raniere.

The flies, utilizing the zone press and fast break, had a brilliant eighteen and three record, avenging each of their losses in a later game. These players will form a strong nucleus for the junior teams of the next two years: Bill Bailey, Norm Barry, Mike Mullen, Dick Biggins, Mike Joyce, and Mark Thornton.

All Good Things Must Come to an End

For twenty-eight years Fenwick had defied all challengers as one crown after another was won by the Friars' senior swimming team. But, finally, in 1966, the law of averages and the exceptional talent of a fine Loyola team caught up with the Friars. Although Fenwick's team was strong, it could not match the strength and depth of Loyola, losing two dual meets to them and finishing a close second in the Catholic League championships, relinquishing that title. A very respectable sixth-place finish in the National Catholic Championship also marked the end of our two-year national reign.

Bright spots in the season were the one-two finishes of Bruce McManaman and Captain Dave Gaidzik in the nationals and in the league, the Catholic League titles taken by Tom Smith and Mike Naber, and the fine efforts of Tom Herbstritt, Tom Laskiewicz, Tim Keady, Marty Donlan, Rich Bernard, and Jim Ford.

With the maturing of the fine junior team, Fenwick and Coach Rex Ball can certainly look forward to starting a new championship string next year.

Frosh-Soph Take All League Honors

The junior swimming season was most successful with the Fenwick frosh-soph winning every dual meet, the Loyola Junior Relays, and the Catholic League Championship. The squad, loaded with freshmen talent, will insure Fenwick's powerhouse position in Catholic League swimming.

The outstanding performer for the juniors was Mike Naber, who set two league records in the 150-yard and 300-yard freestyle (and set a senior record for the 400-yard freestyle). Other valuable sophomores were Greg Johnson, J. R. Shanahan, and Greg Richter, and the diving tandem of Dan Hennebry and John Schuster, who copped all honors.

These tankmen were joined by an able group of freshmen including: Leahy, Davy, and Hanley, freestyle; Lindstrom, freestyle and medley; Goggin, breast stroke; and Wendt and Gallagher.

Water Polo

Coach Phil Stelnicki led the water polo team through an outstandingly successful season. Also at the head of the team was Tom Laskiewicz, captain and playmaker. Bill Ryan and Tom Muraski led in scoring, with totals of twenty-three and twenty-one goals respectively. Their efforts were enhanced by the effective blocking of guards Marty Donlan, Mike Dunigan and Richard Bernard and deep-end goalie John Hennessey and Kim Denkewalter in the shallow water. In regular season play the team lost only one game, that to Bro. Rice. The team atoned for that loss by thumping Bro. Rice 11—2 at their next meeting. In league play the Friars won a total of eleven games. Five months after tournament play, the Friars won their own Fenwick Tournament by going into overtime twice to beat their most persistent foe, Bro. Rice.

Soon after the beginning of the school year the tennis team moved onto the courts under new leadership: Father Ashenbrener came back as coach this year after a ten-year leave of absence as Band Moderator. He had coached Fenwick's netmen in 1954 and 1955.

Captain Dennis Lazzara and Richard Luebbe led the team with their consistent and inspiring play. And among the younger men talent blossomed early: freshman Tom McGannon took second place in the Catholic Tennis League's frosh-soph tournament. McGannon and sophomore Mike Jeremia then went on to take second place in the doubles competition of that tournament. Fenwick's team ended its fall season in third place in the League.

Father Ashenbrener scouted out more promising players during the fallow winter months and had them hard at practice at the first hint of spring. At Easter time the team anticipated good showings in a round-robin tournament, a doubles and singles tournament, and the All-Star game.

Hockey has found a definite spot in Fenwick's roster of extracurricular activities. Its fast, furious action has great spectator appeal and for the 2nd year time in the three years that the C.H.L., Catholic Hockey League, has been in existence, the Friars were the fastest and the most furious. Mr. Fedorka said of this year's team, "They never gave up." And indeed they didn't. They swept up the league and took the Championship. Then when the going got rough, the Friars got going. They posted two victories to win the Kennedy Cup, after having lost initial contact. The team had to fight for every goal, but after all, Fenwick is known as the fighting Friars.

The team was captained by superstar, George Spellmire, who, no less credit to the rest of the team, was obviously the class of the league. In the season he scored 17 goals. But the team was most effective as a unit. Pinpoint passes and bone-jarring checks were characteristic of their play. The result was a 9—0—4 regular season record. For the whole season, including the playoffs, the team posted a 12—1—4 record.

Baseball

After long work-out sessions in the gym, Coach Bob Atwood and his baseball team were able to move out onto the field at the House of Studies shortly before Easter. From the team's experience and their performance in early season practice, Coach Atwood was predicting an impressive season for Fenwick baseball. Bob Kolb, Marv Krueger, Rich Carraher and Berny Fagan promised to be a strong foursome on the mound. Bill Caprel and Len Solfa were catching. Howie Burgh was regular at first, Rich Pettineo and Paul Lamb switched off at second base, Carraher and Carl Lubawy at short, Bob Donlan and Gil LaFemina at third. Out-fielders counted Paul Renick, Tom Kallal, Mike Shields, Pat Hayes, Bill Murphy, Jack Mahoney and Paul Zdrahel.

As the school year drew into its final quarter, the golf team moved out onto the fairways to open their 1966 season. As the team was just getting into the swing of things, Father Bernacki anticipated a program of solid competition but he also expressed confidence in the experience and consistency of the team. In the 1965 season Fenwick had lost its previously held championships in both the Senior and Junior divisions of the Catholic Golf League. It was only a 50—50 season but the team was proud to see John Brundage take the League's Medalist title, the second consecutive Medalist prize to be brought home to Fenwick. 1966 promised to be a brighter season of play: both teams were well balanced and experienced; Senior Captain Pete Gearen and Junior Captain Bill Bailey were both known as outstanding players at the head of two dependable teams.

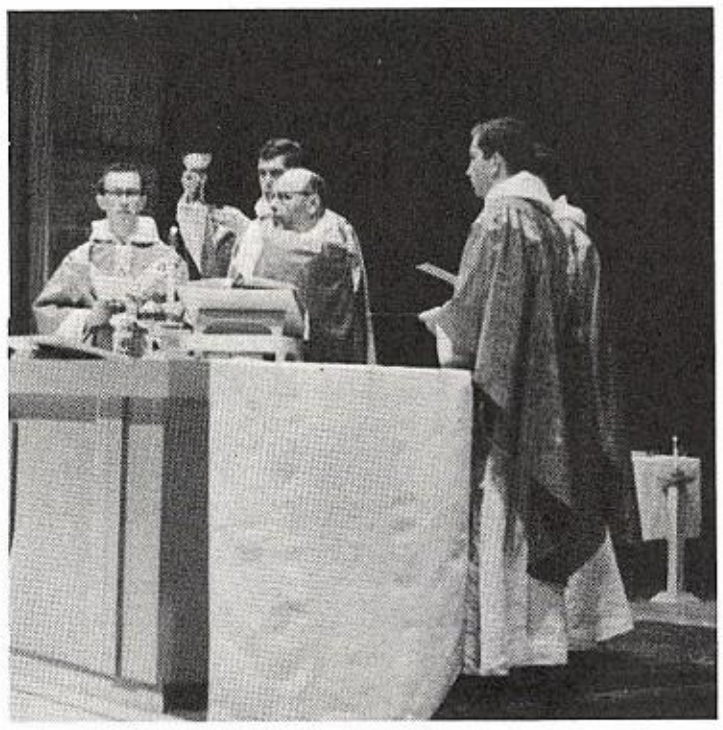
One of the most important innovations at Fenwick this year has been the formation of a student council. All of the class officers banded together with their moderator, Fr. Kelly, to constitute Fenwick's first attempt in student government. However the idea of a student council was not new at Fenwick. The need for official student representation had been expressed by both the administration and the student body in previous years. Much information on student councils was gleaned from other schools in the area, and the first members of Fenwick's student council proceeded to lay the foundations for student representation in the conduct of the school.

During the opening months of school the council set itself the task of devising a suitable constitution. It was agreed that the laws be tentative, because of the inexperience of the council members with this new organization. But this inexperience did not prevent the representative body from acting. A senior football league was organized and operated by the council. The council also received a petition to have coffee served in the cafeteria; the urn of fresh coffee was soon installed in the cafeteria. The revision of certain disciplinary details was also undertaken. A weekly calendar of events, the "Friar Criar," was issued by the council for the first time in February. But the council's most important achievement was the example it gave for the future in its responsible exercise of concern for the school and initiative.



Alumni

"The purpose of the Fenwick Alumni Association is to promote the spirit of camaraderie among its members and to assist in the development of the Fenwick of the future.". This quote from the ALUMNI WICK is Mr. Dan O'Brien's description of the project he has undertaken as the new Executive Secretary of the association. The club will help keep Fenwick graduates in touch with their alma mater and with one another during their college and business careers. To achieve this goal, the Association has scheduled a number of events and programs during the school year, such as the Homecoming football game reception, the Alumni-Varsity basketball game, and the annual Alumni dance. In addition, a weekly Gym and Pool night was inaugurated, giving the alumni access to the school facilities in their efforts to keep in shape. As always, the Alumni year culminated in a reunion, this year, that of the Class of 1941.

Above: newly ordained Dominican alumni concelebrate Mass in a school assembly with Fr. Cumiskey. They are (l. to r.) Fathers Gennaro Malizia, George Kovacec, Michael Walsh and Joseph Selvaggio.
Right: Fr. John Schwind, Alumni Moderator, and Mr. Dan O'Brien, Executive Secretary of the Association.
Below: Alumnus, now Astronaut, Dr. Joseph Kerwin is initiated into the Friars Club at the Football Banquet.

National Honor Society

Each year membership in the National Honor Society is extended to ten per cent of the graduating class. This distinction is the school's proud recognition of scholastic achievement. It is late in the spring of the year that the faculty reviews the careers of the juniors. Only those in the top third of the class scholastically are considered eligible; the election of the members by their instructors is then based on leadership in the various phases of the school's life. The names of those so honored is first announced at the annual Honors Assembly.

Twenty-six members of the class of 1966 wear the small but significant key of the National Honor Society. It says that they have studied earnestly, they have grown intellectually, they have proven their competitive stamina, they have been a leaven in their school.

It was also in the spring of their junior year that the Class of '66 took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Michael Comiskey, Walter Ubik and Timothy Zeglin achieved the status of finalist in this competition. Nineteen others received Certificates of Merit in recognition of their scoring in the top two per cent of all those competing. They were Robert Bambera, Lawrence Berlandi, David Daly, John Davis, Daniel Del Boccio, Robert Drum, Keith Gorlen, Terrence Kelleher, Thomas Herbstritt, John Kociolko, James Morrison, Michael Morrissey, Raymond Mueller, Bruce Nabor, Terrence O'Brien, John Pavletic, Richard Peloquin, George Spellmire and Michael Zanin.
